THE NIGHT SCHOOL .- No more really beneficial object was ever undertaken in this city than the establishment of a night school for boys and young men, who by reason of their occupations are unable to devote any time during work hours to study and the acquirement of useful knowledge; and since some of the citizens have made the attempt, it is hoped that they will be encouraged not only by words, but by deeds. Teachers are wanted. The attendance of pupils is excellent, averaging over fifty, but there is a scarcity of teachers, only three being present last night. If the young are thirsting for knowledge, by all means let them have it. They are to take the place before long of those who now are active in life and it is important that they should know as much as possible. To Mr. Geo. R. Hill, and killed and others injured. his associates are due the credit of inau-gurating this truly beneficial institution, and they ask the cooperation of all who take an interest in the cause of education and morality in | morrow for the Highlands to be absent about a aid of the good work. Let them not ask in month. vain, and to-night let there be a sufficiency of teachers. Withhold not knowledge from any who desire to acquire it.

IMPORTANT CASE. - The Southern and Atlantic Telegraph company vs. the Orange Alexandria and Manassas Railroad company. This cause was argued before Judge Underwood in the United States Court room this morning. upon the application of the complainant for an injunction, to restrain the defendant from removing the poles of complainant from defendant's land. Francis L. Smith and Francis L. Smith, jr., appeared for defendant,-J. Audly Ashton, formerly assistant Attorney General of the U. S., and Judge W. W. Willoughby for the complainant, and Gen. H. H. Wells, representing the Attorney General of the United States. The Court reserved its decision. The case is regarded as very important, involving, as it does, the constitutionality of the Act of Congress making railroads post routes, and authorizing the maintenance of telegraph lines

COLUMBIA FIRE BELL. - The efforts to raise the necessary funds for the purchase of a fire alarm bell for the Columbia engine house, alluded to in the Gazette some days since, are still in progress, and it is to be hoped will prove successful. Mr. Richard Purcell, the engineer of the Columbia wrote several days ago to parties in Philadelphia about the bells belonging to some of the companies lately disbanded in that city, but any of them will probably cost more than can at present be raised IMPROVEMENT. -- It was stated in the Gazette, some time ago, that the firm of Burke & Herbert contemplated the building of a handsome banking house on the lot at the southeast corner of Fairfax and King streets, belonging to Dr. F. ## Gen. Butler's Speech.

WORCESTER, Sept. 27 .- The following i General Butler's speech : Gentlemen of the Convention: I suppose it may not be uninteresting for you to know what is my view of the result of to-day's work, and if it pleases you that I may state it, I feel myself bound so to do. (Cries of let us have it, go on.) After the retirement of Govenor Claffin from the canvass I allowed my name to be before the commonwealth, and when I judged it | quiet and unchanged. Corn steady. necessary I followed with such considerations. as seemed to me fit, in order to induce some reform in the republican party, and especially upon the great measures. How I was met is a matter of history; met by the press; met by the organizations established by the patronage of the State government; met even by the Senatorial delegation in Congress which descended into the arena of State politics; met even by some of my colleagues; I endeavored to treat them each one and all as republicans; I endeavored to hold high the banner of the republican party; I endeavored as far as in me lay to so conduct the party as to lead to its greater usefulness; I was then met by many men who threatened to bolt the nomination of the republican party in case I was nominated. This would have justified me in my judgement entirely in repudiating the action of any convention in which men should vote, and declare these determinations before I submitted my claims to it. But I am a better republican than they

[Great applause.] Having seen that this Convention has been conducted generally in the spirit of fairness; that there was as little of frauds and mistakes as can be incident to any convention, and baying fairly submitted my claims to it, and not believing that the great heart of the people of the Commonwealth ever agreed for a moment to the declaration made by the zealous opponents; I felt myself bound by its decisions as a man of honor. [Applause.] Perhaps with that I said enough; but there is one thing I cannot into the midnight, against all promises, threats and blandishments, whatever, to you I am grateful. (Three cheers.) No man ever had such friends before, and not a man will ever labor more to deserve them than I will, and inside the Republican party. Inside, I say, the that while we yield entirely to the organization, as we are bound to do, in that organization we go on and labor still for the great principles is truth and justice in the people of the Commonwealth we shall attain them. When the men that opposed us learn as you have what our motives are and what our actions will be; and the silence of reputation upon our slanderers is lived down as slander ever can be lived down by the good and the true. Now gentlemen of the Convention, for the uniform courtesy and kindness with which I have been treated this day allow me to give you each and all my thanks and hearty congratulations on your success, which is not weakened by the fact of my A DANGEROUS HORSE .- A young lawyer of | ill success. There are more things to be desired than public office; more to be looked at than position and the only thing I carry with me is the kindness and fidelity of my friends and the courteous forbearance of the great majority of my opponents, and believe that ALEXANDRIA LIBRARY .-- A meeting of the whatever may have been the result of my work, so far as I am concerned the party with which I act and have acted will undertake to reform its own bosom, as it ought to do; and let me now in closing ask each and every one of the members of the republican party, as re-presented in this Convention, to go forward and do that, so that this Commonwealth may be in deed and every minor particular what we all know her to be—the great general exemp-lar of States and the Commonwealth and of the nations of the world. | Applause. |

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Old Things have Passed Away.-This is at least true of the old method of treating the long abused and much abused human body. It long abused and much abused human body. It is no longer considered wise to put a patient to the torture in order to cure him of a disease in which pain is already undermining the energies of his system. True science ranges itself on the side of nature, and endeavors to assist her in her fight against disease. This is the province of Hostetter's Stomach Ritters, the most approved to the said truet of land being situated near Centre. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most approved tonic ever advertised in this country. It may be recommended as a fall medicine, par excel-lence; for it is in the fall that biliousness, dyspepsia and malarious fevers are especially provalent. The frame, exhausted by the heats of summer, is relaxed and feeble at its close, and requires, we may say demands, artificial assistance. Afford it that assistance in occasional accidentally shot Henry Thompson last night in doses of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and the evils referred to may be escaped. Throughout the far west, and on the steaming alluvial of the Southern rivers, all the varieties of periodical The wound is considered serious. Both parties are from Albemarle.

El Vino Catalina .- The announcement that has been so generally heralded throughout the country that an American company has again commenced importing this celebrated Wine Tonic is a matter of no small importance, and will be haifed with joy by all those seeking a pure and invigorating tonic; also, those who need a pure, pleasant and refreshing stimulant will find in the El Vino Catalina, or Brown's Catalina Wine Tonic, what they want. It will be remembered that importations were made in 1866 of this noted brand, but in consequence of the high duty then demanded by this government, the enterprise ceased, to the regret of thousands who had learned its value. It is the oldest tonic in the world, and doubtless the most invigorating, the purest and best, and if importation continues at the rates now started, it will take its place in every family in this as well as in the old countries. Its merits will make it a household article, and we hope that every one who has ever used any Bitters or common patent tonic, will at least try one bottle of the Catalina, and then decide for themselves whether they will use this Tonic, prepared from the pure juice of the Catalina grape, with Calisaya and the spices of Ceylon, or a bitters made of common whiskey and bitter field herbs. This is an invaluable preparation for weakness and debility; it relieves morning languor and gives freshness and appetite, not followed by an unpleasant reaction. It cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Costiveness Bilious Derangements, Cramp Colic, Flatu-lence, Diarrhea, Dysentery Nausea, Vomiting, Morning Sickness, Chills and Fevers, Headache, Nervous Irritability, Anamia, Heart Disease, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Diseases of the Skin and all Franciers wither mosales of the Skin, and all Eruptions, either caused by other diseases or impurity of the blood. As a Tonic in Consumption, it has no superior, of which thousands believe themselves to have been cured by its use. We do not claim that it will cure Consumption, but we are sure that it will prevent it if taken freely in time.
